General Description

The English Setter is a gun dog of great style and beauty. It is well balanced, moderate in size. The chest is deep, reaching to the elbows. The topline is level or slightly sloping. The tail is an extension of the topline, with no dip or break at the junction point. The tail is shaped like a flag and reaches to the hock when the dog is relaxed. The head is long and slender. The coat of an English Setter is soft, silky and speckled in color. The base color is always white with flecking, or roaning, in varying shades. The jacket coat should lay smoothly over the head, throat, neck, shoulders, back, down the sides of the dog and the thighs. There are longer furnishings on the ears, chest, undercarriage, belly, the back of the legs and the tail.
